- Take into account the risk of complaints when using a tackifier/anti-slip adhesive instead of a full double bonding, where both the subfloor and the back of the carpet are fully bonded with a universal carpet adhesive.
- A tackifier does not provide the same dimensional stability, adhesive strength, and durability as a double bonding system.
- In high-traffic applications, we advise against using a tackifier due to the risk of insufficient adhesion, premature wear, and functional failure of the flooring system.
